TEXT -1

As recently as 2007, Spain was a vigorous creator of growth and jobs. ----- However, those days are now over, and in recent years Spain has witnessed 20 percent unemployment and a huge trade deficit. In the year 2010, as other European economies grew again, Spain's economy shrank. In 2011, its GDP (Gross Domestic Product) expanded by less than 1 per cent. The world's ninth-biggest economy in 2009 will soon be twelfth, overtaken by Russia, India and Canada. Recent reforms are a change in the right direction, but not enough to stop Spain from falling behind.

25. Which of the followings completes the blank above in the text?

- A) It was notable at the time for its massive investments in these sectors of the economy.
- B) Economists wonder when it will turn to meaningful growth, a highly demanded economic measure.
- C) The Prime Minister of Spain, José Luis Rodríguez Zapatero, is a reluctant reformer.
- D) Spain refuses to admit that many of its financial problems are caused internationally.
- E) Spanish Prime Minister, Zapatero, was slow to recognize market impatience with Spain's deficit.

26. What was Spain's economic situation like before 2007?

- A) There was high unemployment.
- B) Its economy got smaller and smaller.
- C) People had a difficulty in finding a job.
- D) The economy was strong and the recruitment rate was high.
- E) Trade deficit was great.

27. What can be said about the economy of Spain after 2007?

- A) There was no growth in economy.
- B) Imports increased.
- C) Trade deficit grew bigger.
- D) The number of unemployed people became bigger.
- E) All of them above.

TEXT-2

The chief victory of this book is its description of Wellington. He is not simply the famous British general who defeated Napoleon at Waterloo. He remains a great general, but he is also shown to have had weak sides in his splendid boots. For example, the writer emphasizes on Wellington's pride and his lack of generosity in sharing the glories of his victories. This is a splendid book, and it is interesting and effective. It redefines Wellington with his whole achievements and ends by reminding us that it was Napoleon who so forcefully stated a wish that there should be "a European code of laws, a European judiciary ... one people in Europe". It is obvious that his dream is coming true.

28. From this passage, we get the impression that the reviewed book _____.

- A) makes fun of both Napoleon and Wellington
- B) overlooks the fact that Wellington was a great general
- C) pays more attention to Napoleon than to Wellington
- D) is unnecessarily critical of Wellington
- E) is well-written and gives a balanced picture of Wellington

29. In the book, Wellington is criticized for _____.

- A) not caring about the role of others in his victories
- B) his plan of campaign at Waterloo
- C) trying to buy people's affection and support
- D) underestimating Napoleon's strength
- E) failing to consult his subordinates

30. It is clear from the passage that the book differs from traditional biographies of Wellington _____.

- A) as his great enemy Napoleon receives more praise than him
- B) as it questions his skills as a leader
- C) because it shows up his human weaknesses
- D) in manner, but not in content
- E) by putting the whole emphasis on his faults, never on his good sides

31. We understand from the passage that in the book under review, Napoleon _____.

- A) is simply presented as the big enemy
- B) predicted the concept of "a united Europe" at that time
- C) is described to have greater military skills than Wellington
- D) and Wellington each admired the military skills of the other
- E) knew from the beginning that he would never win Britain

TEXT -3

Today, the European Union is home to more than 25 million immigrants, who represent about 5 percent of the total EU population and make valuable contributions to European society. These new arrivals fill gaps in the labour market that EU workers cannot or do not wish to fill, helping to address the demographic decline in Europe's working age population. Properly managed, immigration can help contribute to the EU's long-term economic development and competitiveness. At the same time, ensuring the security and prosperity of the EU population remains vital. The key is to streamline and simplify the legal immigration process, enforce measures against illegal immigrants, secure the external borders and support the Member States' efforts to promote the integration of immigrants so they become full participants in EU society. One of the EU's more remarkable achievements is the creation of its single market, where people, goods, services and capital move freely throughout the 29 EU Member States. The flip side of this free movement; however, is that the reduced internal border controls necessitate strengthened external borders. Each border state bears a particular responsibility for defending its portion of the EU's borders and with it, the security of the entire EU.

32. What is one advantage of immigrants for the EU?

- A) They do the jobs that inhabitants don't want to do.
- B) They cause unemployment.
- C) They fill vacancies demanded by the EU citizens.
- D) They culturally disintegrate themselves.
- E) They cause internal conflicts in the states they live.

33. According to the passage, _____.

- A) local workers in EU countries are better educated and thus more competent than the immigrants
- B) in the long run, immigrants may contribute to the management of financial problems of the EU
- C) the problem of the work gap in EU countries can never be totally overcome
- D) working conditions of the immigrants in the EU are worse than in their home countries
- E) the free movement of people and goods throughout Member States is hindered by strong internal borders

34. According to the passage, what is one of the greatest concerns of members states with regard to the free movement?

- A) Education
- B) Religion
- C) Social assistance
- D) Security
- E) Conflicts
