B- READING (24 pts.)

Read the following article and answer the questions below. (5qs x 2 pts each= 10 pts)

- I. The history of phones is a fascinating journey that reflects the evolution of communication technology. From the early days of telegraphy to the smartphones we use today, phones have transformed the way we connect with one another.
- II. The story of the telephone begins in the 19th century. In 1837, Samuel Morse developed the telegraph, which allowed people to send messages over long distances using electrical signals. This invention was revolutionary, but it had its limitations. People wanted to talk to each other, not just send written messages.
- III. In 1876, Alexander Graham Bell made a significant breakthrough. He invented the first practical telephone, which converted sound into electrical signals. Bell famously said, "Mr. Watson, come here, I want to see you," as he spoke into his new device. This marked the beginning of voice communication over long distances.
- IV. After Bell's invention, the telephone quickly gained popularity. By the late 1800s, telephone lines were being installed in homes and businesses. The first telephone exchange opened in New Haven, Connecticut, in 1878, allowing people to connect their calls through a central operator.
- V. In the early 20th century, the rotary dial was introduced, making it easier for people to make calls without needing an operator. This innovation led to a rapid increase in the number of telephone users. By the 1920s, millions of people around the world were using telephones.
- VI. The telephone continued to evolve throughout the 20th century. In the 1960s, the introduction of touch-tone dialing replaced the rotary dial, making it even more convenient to make calls. The development of mobile phones began in the 1970s, allowing people to communicate on the go.
- VII. The first mobile phone call was made in 1973 by Martin Cooper, a Motorola engineer. This marked the beginning of a new era in communication. However, early mobile phones were large and expensive, making them accessible only to a few.
- VIII. The real transformation came in the 21st century with the advent of smartphones. In 2007, Apple launched the iPhone, which combined a phone, an internet browser, and a media player into one device. This innovation changed the way people communicate, work, and access information.
- IX. Today, smartphones are an essential part of daily life. They allow us to make calls, send messages, browse the internet, and use various applications. The rise of social media and instant messaging has further changed how we connect with others.
- X. The history of phones is a testament to human ingenuity and the desire for connection. From the first telephone to the latest smartphones, each advancement has brought us closer together. As technology continues to evolve, we can only imagine what the future holds for communication.

Read the following article and answer the questions below. (7qs x 2 pts each= 14 pts)

- I. Coffee is one of the most popular beverages in the world, enjoyed by millions of people every day. There are many different types of coffee, each with its unique flavor and preparation method. Here are some of the most common types of coffee you might encounter.
- II. Espresso is a strong and concentrated coffee made by forcing hot water through finely-ground coffee beans. It is the base for many other coffee drinks. A single shot of espresso has a rich flavor and a thick consistency. Many coffee lovers enjoy it on its own, while others use it as the foundation for drinks like lattes and cappuccinos.
- III. An Americano is made by adding hot water to a shot of espresso. This process dilutes the espresso, resulting in a milder flavor that resembles traditional brewed coffee. It is a popular choice for those who enjoy the taste of espresso but prefer a larger cup.
- IV. Cappuccino is a delightful blend of equal parts espresso, steamed milk, and milk foam. The foam on top adds a creamy texture and can be sprinkled with cocoa powder or cinnamon for extra flavor. This drink is often enjoyed in the morning and is known for its rich and frothy consistency.
- V. A latte is similar to a cappuccino but contains more steamed milk and less foam. Typically made with one shot of espresso and a larger amount of steamed milk, lattes are smooth and creamy. They can be flavored with syrups, such as vanilla or caramel, making them a popular choice for those who enjoy sweet coffee drinks.
- VI. Cold brew coffee is made by steeping coarsely ground coffee in cold water for an extended period, usually 12 to 24 hours. This method results in a smooth and less acidic coffee. Cold brew can be served over ice and is often enjoyed during warm weather.
- VII. With so many types of coffee to choose from, there is something for everyone. Whether you prefer the boldness of espresso or the creaminess of a latte, coffee offers a delightful experience that can be enjoyed in various ways.
